FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Petitioner (CARES # [REDACTED]) is a resident of Milwaukee County.

2. During time periods relevant herein, the Petitioner was eligible for and receiving FoodShare (FS) benefits and BadgerCare (BC) benefits through the Department of Health Services (DHS) and child care benefits through the Department of Children and Families (DCF).
3. MM is the father of one of Petitioner's children.
4. MM received UC benefits of $194 on April 30, 2012, $37 on May 7, 2012 and $122 on May 17, 2012. He had no other income during the month of May, 2012. He was not employed during May, 2012. See Exhibit R-5.
5. On April 25, 2012, the Petitioner contacted the consortium and spoke with a DHS agency worker to ask how her benefits would be affected if MM is added to her case. She informed the agency that MM did not live with her currently but she anticipated that he might soon be homeless. The agency explained FS policy to the Petitioner. See Exhibit R-2.
6. On May 1, 2012, the Petitioner contacted the consortium and spoke with a DHS agency worker. She requested to add MM to her case. She submitted a change report. She reported MM is unemployed and that he receives unemployment compensation benefits of $276/week with a child support intercept of $82. See Exhibits R-2 and R-7.
7. On May 2, 2012, DCF issued a Notice of Eligibility Child Care to the Petitioner informing her that she was eligible for child care benefits effective May 1, 2012. The notice indicated that the Petitioner's approved activity is employment and MM's approved activities are employment skills training and work. It further notes MM's unearned income from unemployment compensation benefits is $1,186.80/month. With Petitioner's earned income of $2,610.96/month, the agency calculated household income of $3,797.78/month for May, 2012 which is under the gross income limit of $5,162. See Exhibit P-1.
8. On May 2, 2012, DHS issued a Notice of Decision to the Petitioner informing her that her FS benefits would decrease from $358/month to $89/month due to an increase in the household income. See Exhibit P-1.
9. On May 7, 2012, DCF issued a Child Care Authorization Information notice informing the Petitioner that effective April 1, 2012, the Petitioner had attendance-based authorizations for child care for 15 hours/week for three school-aged children and for 35 hours/week for one non-school-aged child. See Exhibits R-8.
10. On May 9, 2012, the Petitioner contacted the consortium and spoke with a DHS agency worker. She informed the agency that MM's unemployment benefits had been discontinued. See Exhibit R-2.
11. On May 29, 2012, DCF issued a Child Care Authorization Information notice informing the Petitioner that effective April 1, 2012, the Petitioner had attendance-based authorizations for child care for 15 hours/week for three school-aged children and for 35 hours/week for one non-school-aged child. See Exhibit P-1.
12. On May 31, 2012, a referral was submitted to DCF requesting full time authorizations for the summer for the three school-aged children. The agency processed the referral but was unable to complete the authorizations due to MM not being in an approved activity. The agency ended the Petitioner's authorizations effective June 2, 2012. See Exhibit R-2.
13. On June 4, 2012, DCF completed an overpayment referral. See Exhibit R-3.
14. On June 6, 2012, DCF issued a Notice of Eligibility Child Care informing the Petitioner that her child care eligibility would end on June 30, 2012. See Exhibit R-8.
15. On June 7, 2012, Petitioner called the consortium to remove MM from her case. She submitted a change report indicating that he left the home on June 6, 2012. See Exhibits R-2 and R-7.

16. On February 7, 2013, the agency issued a Child Care Overpayment Notice and worksheet to the Petitioner informing her of the agency's intent to recoup $757.11 for an overissuance of child care benefits for the period of May 6 – 31, 2012. See Exhibit R-1.
17. On February 12, 2013, the Petitioner filed an appeal with the Division of Hearings and Appeals.

DISCUSSION

All child care funding distribution falls under the aegis of the Wisconsin Works (W-2) program, regardless of whether or not the applicant is actually a participant in W-2 activities. Wis. Stats., § 49.155(1m).

In a Fair Hearing concerning the propriety of an overpayment determination, the agency has the burden of proof to establish that the action taken by it is proper given the facts of the case. If the agency meets its burden, the Petitioner must then rebut the agency's case and establish facts sufficient to overcome the agency's evidence of correct action.

The child care subsidy program's authorizing statute contains financial and nonfinancial eligibility criteria. If parents do not meet the eligibility criteria, then they are not eligible for child care (CC) benefits. Wis. Stats., §49.155(1m). In this case, the agency asserts that while MM was living in the Petitioner's household, he was not engaged in an approved activity, resulting in the Petitioner being ineligible for child care benefits.

The pertinent portion of the statute setting out nonfinancial eligibility criteria reads as follows:

(1m) ELIGIBILITY. A Wisconsin works agency shall determine eligibility for a child care subsidy under this section. Under this section, an individual may receive a subsidy for child care for a child who has not attained the age of 13 ...if the individual meets all of the following conditions:

- (a) The individual is a parent of a child who is under the age of 13 ...and child care services for that child are needed in order for the individual to do any of the following:
 1. Meet the school attendance requirement under s.49.26(1)(ge)[Learnfare, for minor parents].
 - 1m. Obtain a high school diploma ...
 2. Work in an unsubsidized job ...
 3. Work in a Wisconsin works employment position ...
 - 3m. Participate in a job search or work experience component of the food stamp ... program.
 4. If the Wisconsin works agency determines that basic education would facilitate the individual's efforts to maintain employment, participate in basic education ... An individual may receive aid under this subdivision for up to 2 years.
 5. Participate in a course of study at a technical college... An individual may receive aid under this subdivision for up to 2 years.

Wis. Stat. §49.155(1m)(a). See also Wisconsin Shares Child Care Manual (Manual) at §1.4.8.

The Manual provides that: "In two parent families both parents in the AG (assistance group) including step parents and non-marital co-parents must be participating in approved activities. . ." Child Day Care Manual, §1.4.8.2.

The Manual defines child care family or family group as including any nonmarital coparent or any spouse of the individual who resides in the same household as the individual and any dependent children with respect to whom the spouse or nonmarital coparent is a custodial parent. Manual, §1.2.0.

In this case, there is no dispute between the parties that MM was a non-marital co-parent of one of the Petitioner's children and that he was residing with the Petitioner from May 1, 2013 – June 6, 2013. It is also undisputed that he was not employed while he was living with the Petitioner, that he was not attending school, that he was not engaged in approved W-2 activities and that he was not engaged in FoodShare Employment and Training (FSET) program. There is evidence that MM was engaged in job search and work training activities as part of receiving unemployment compensation benefits until those benefits ended.

The Petitioner asserts an equitable estoppel argument, contending that she relied to her detriment on information she received from a DHS agency worker that her child care benefits would not be affected by MM's inclusion in her household.

Case law in Wisconsin has recognized that the powers of administrative agencies are limited to those expressly granted by the legislature or necessarily implied by the statutes. DOR v. Hogan, 198 Wis. 2d 792, 816, 543 N.W.2d 825 (1995), provides in pertinent part:

Few principles are as well established as the proposition that administrative agencies, as entities created by the legislature as part of the executive branch of government, have only such powers as are expressly granted to them by the legislature, or as may be necessarily implied from the applicable statutes...In determining the nature and scope of an agency's powers, its enabling statutes are to be 'strictly construed to preclude the exercise of a power not expressly granted,' and '[a]ny reasonable doubt as to the existence of an implied power should be resolved against [the agency].

The legislature has not expressly conferred equitable powers upon administrative agencies. Chapter 227, Wis. Stats., authorizes state agencies such as the Division of Hearings and Appeals to hold contested case hearings. It also empowers such agencies to make findings of fact and conclusions of law, and to decide cases based on the relevant facts and law. There is nothing in Chapter 227, Wis. Stats. that expressly authorizes agencies such as this one, to apply equitable principles such as the equitable estoppel claim raised in this case. Administrative agencies are required to accord "fair hearings" in the sense that they must accord due process with an even handed application of the law to the facts in similar cases. Neither the statutes nor case law clearly accord administrative agencies equitable powers. I conclude that I do not have the authority to exercise equitable powers.

The Petitioner argues that equitable estoppel may be asserted against administrative agencies under Kamps vs. Wisconsin DOR, 663 N.W. 2d 306. That court noted that equitable estoppel may be applied against an administrative agency; it also noted the heavy burden on a petitioner in doing so. However, while a circuit or appellate court may apply equitable estoppel against an administrative agency, there is no such authority given to the Division of Hearings and Appeals and administrative law judges.

Though MM was engaged in job search activities and the Petitioner was advised by the agency that his residence with her would not affect her eligibility for benefits, I have no discretion but to conclude that, according to the child care regulations, she was not eligible for benefits during the period that MM resided with her because his job search activities were not part of the FSET program. Therefore, the agency may recover benefits in the amount of $757.11 for the period of May 6 – 31, 2012.

CONCLUSIONS OF LAW

Based on the evidence, I conclude that the Petitioner was overissued child care benefits for the period of May 6 - 31, 2012 and the agency has the authority to recoup child care benefits in the amount of $757.11 issued to the Petitioner during that time period.

THEREFORE, it is

That this petition be, and hereby is, dismissed.
